Section I: Guidance for EU leadership in a world of compounding crises

EU RECOMMENDATIONS

Raise the Bar: A blueprint for EU leadership in a world of compounding crises

This report highlights seven priority areas for EU policymakers to better respond to the realities of humanitarian, development and displacement crises today.

Key Resources | HUMANITARIAN AND CONFLICT

WATCHLIST REPORTS

IRC Emergency Watchlist 2024 and Watchlist Crisis Alert on Sudan

The Emergency Watchlist report is the IRC's assessment of the 20 countries at greatest risk of new humanitarian emergencies each year.

The Watchlist Crisis Alert on Sudan, published in June 2024, provides an overview of the trajectory of one of the world's worst humanitarian crises, characterised by catastrophic levels of hunger and internal displacement.

Statement and op-ed on the EU's new development approach

- The statement and op-ed raise the alarm about the Commission's shift to a transactional approach and disengagement from fragile and conflict-affected states in its development cooperation. We explain why this would have devastating consequences for those most at-risk and undermine the EU's global relevance in an increasingly fragile world, also proposing solutions to strengthen the EU's approach to development.

Key Resources | MIGRATION AND ASYLUM

PACT EXPLAINER

What is the Pact on Migration and Asylum

Our Pact Explainer offers a concise overview of key files of the Pact, and an analysis of what is at stake in regard to the rights of refugees

Press release from the IRC in response to the Pact adoption

- A PR calling on EU leaders to closely monitor how the Pact is being implemented and to urgently put the Union Resettlement Framework into practice.

Joint statement by civil society actors on the Union Resettlement Framework (URF)

- A statement by 22 civil society organisations calling for the URF to be swiftly and fully put into place by expanding the capacity of national resettlement programmes in all Member States. Furthermore, robust monitoring and reporting are required, and the involvement of displaced people, civil society, and humanitarian actors should be ensured at every step of the process.

Section II: Key avenues for championing humanitarian, development and displacement issues

As Members of the European Parliament, you have a range of tools at your disposal to drive and influence the EU's priorities for humanitarian action, development assistance, and migration and asylum.

The Parliament's legislative powers will allow you to negotiate and approve (or not) changes to the legal basis (and the measures necessary for the implementation) of the EU's humanitarian aid and development policies as well as on asylum and migration. For example, in June 2021, the European Parliament signed the regulation establishing the NDICI-Global Europe, which is the main financial instrument for the EU's development cooperation. More recently and after years of negotiations, the European Parliament adopted the European Pact on Migration and Asylum in April 2024.

The Parliament's budgetary powers, including in relation to the EU Multiannual Financial Framework (MFF), will allow you to make the case for allocating financial resources on the basis of what the EU needs to implement its commitments, particularly with regard to supporting people in fragile and conflict-affected states. Specifically on asylum and migration, one of the objectives of the MFF is to provide support for Member States in the management of migration and the development and strengthening of the Common European Asylum System.

The Parliament's powers of scrutiny will allow you to monitor the European Commission's implementation of humanitarian aid and development policies as well as on asylum and migration. This may include holding hearings for Commissioner-designates and asking them key questions relating to their mandates, providing your approval (or not) for the appointment of the college of Commissioner-designates, asking parliamentary questions to European institutions and bodies, and discussing policies with the EC on a regular basis in formal and informal settings.

In line with the above, as MEPs you will also be able to help give visibility to certain issues and crises, including through hearings, non-binding resolutions, missions, and public statements and interventions in the media.

The treaties provide that Members of the European Commission be subject collectively to a vote of approval by the European Parliament to validate their appointment. It has now become the norm that responsible parliamentary committees hold hearings of each Commissioner-designate.
